CORSICA

With high-altitude lakes bordered with pines, fine sandy creeks with crystal-clear waters, porphyry-red or chalk-white cliffs, granite canyons and impenetrable maquis [scrub], in Corsica it is possible to “see the world” in just a few miles... Corsica is the greenest, best-preserved, best-irrigated, most mountainous and most varied of the Mediterranean islands.

With more than 1000 kilometers of coastline that are home to crystal-clear waters, vast fine sandy beaches, small deserted creeks and granite cliffs inhabited by sea birds, Corsica offers a variety of marine landscapes that is unique in the Mediterranean. Even in the height of summer, it is not hard to find a quiet little creek in which to dive, fish or simply swim. With water temperatures suitable for bathing between May (19°C) and October (20°C), and reaching 24°C in July and August, Corsica is the dream setting for practising all kinds of water sports.

Rich in heritage, Corsica is equally rich in living traditions, in which gastronomy plays a central role. Prisuttu (cured ham), Figatellu (liver sausage), Lonzu (dried fillet), Coppa (dried sirloin) and Salame (salami) are just a few examples of the many pork specialities found on the island.

What is more, the fish and seafood, especially in spring and summer, will delight your taste buds and you will be able to choose from eight locally produced wines to accompany your meals.

There will be no shortage of incomparably flavoursome goat's and sheep's cheeses to follow.

So Bon appétit and A a saluta! (to your health!)

Ajaccio

Ajaccio, Corsica's diminutive capital sparkles with Mediterranean buzz reminiscent of the Côte d'Azur and is the largest town on the island. Napoleon Bonaparte, who was born there, gave the town international fame and visitors cannot escape his commemorative presence throughout the town.

It is an attractive town with an exceptionally mild climate boasting a wealth of cafés, restaurants and chic shops. The old town is especially charming with a cluster of ancient streets spreading north and south of the Place Foch. The sea front promenade along the Route des Sanguinaires is a pleasant place to stroll and it leads to some lovely beaches.

TRAVAIL A EFFECTUER EN ANGLAIS.

You work for a travel agency called DECOUVERTE located in Nice and you have received this e-mail from a British couple:

Dear Sir,
We heard about your company through some friends and we would very much like your help with organising our next holiday. A few years ago we went to the French Riviera and really enjoyed the beaches, the scenery and the night life. We are definitely looking for a similar kind of holiday. We are hoping to travel between the 24th and the 28th of August.
Thank you for your help,
Mr and Mrs Jarrett.

You answer their e-mail. You recommend Corsica. Justify your choice in your own words. Use documents A,B,C and D and your own knowledge. Remember that they don't speak French.
300 words + or – 10 %.
