The New Forest National Park is going green, with visitors given a host of innovative incentives¹ to leave their cars at home and take to the countryside on foot, bikes and even horseback, says Simon Heptinstall.

- Squirrels, butterflies and grazing ponies are not in the slightest bit afraid of bikes. I can report
5 this fact after a beautiful sunny day's research pedalling through woodland tracks² in the lovely New Forest. I was experiencing a new type of day out in the New Forest. I'd arrived by train at Brockenhurst station, collected a hired³ bike and rolled off on a traffic-free route through some of southern England's best countryside. It was a complete adventure - without my car.
- 10 It's all thanks to a pioneering project by New Forest authorities to make England's newest National Park into its greenest and cleanest destination. This summer's impressive eco-tourism campaign includes many hotels and Bed and Breakfasts offering "car-free" discounts if you arrive by train. Many still arrive by car, of course, but reducing traffic will improve the quality of the visit for everyone.
- 15 And over the years, the New Forest has remained a great area for car-free adventures, thanks to its network of paths⁴ and tracks. There are now more than 150 miles of off-road gravel tracks for safe⁵ family cycling and walking. And a 40 mph speed limit on roads has made it a calmer place to cycle and to protect the animals, which roam freely. Cycle hire companies throughout the New Forest can supply maps, advice and bikes.
- 20 I found cycling the perfect way to explore the Forest in a peaceful, healthy and non-polluting way.
